A New, Wonderful and Useful Invention,
CALLED A
Tical Power,
Has been discovered at the expense of many years study and experiment which will revolutionize the method of obtaining power for driving machinery of all kinds.
Although this power is obtained from the rise and fall of the tides, machinery can be driven at a long distance from the seat of power with this invention, by means of a wire rope which is now in common use for similar purposes.
This Machinery is so simple and occupies so little room that it can be erected on any wharf, and the expense of this Machinery very trifling compared to other power
It will run for years without any expense and without any person to tend it the power being continuously obtained night and day if desired, a common scow being sufficient to drive light machinery
This power can easily and effectually be applied to ring Fog Bells, saving the Government thousands of dollars yearly, needing no attention after being once set in motion.
The principle by which a continuous motion of the Main Shaft is insured in a given direction, can also be applied to Sewing Machines and prevent the possibility of the machine changing to the troublesome backward motion which breaks the thread, by using this process on Sewing Machines, both hands of the operator are entirely at liberty to hold the work Children can run them without trouble
In manufacturing Sewing Machines for the future the Balance Wheels can be entirely dispensed with consequently making a great saving in the manufacturing This principle can be applied to every machine [illegible]
The application of this principle can also be made to foot Lathes the motion of the foot being hardly perceptible and more speed attained than with the crank It also saves the motion of the body when propelling the machine, and favors the ankle.
The "Close Treadle" for Sewing Machines, constructed to embody the above named principle and capable of being applied to sewing machines of any size, kind, or shape, are now being manufactured, and in a few days may be seen, at the clothing store of E. C Smart on Exchange Street, in operation attached to a sewing machine [illegible] the manufacturer of B. P. Howe [illegible] "Improved Howe Sewing Machine." [illegible]

MAINE CENTRAL RAILROAD
Extension Bonds.

It is generally well known the Maine Central Railroad terminates at Danville Junction and from thence to Portland the Road is a part of the Grand Trunk Railway For the use of this piece of Road (some 28 miles the Maine Central pays to the Grand Trunk a rental which for some years past has amounted to some $70 000 per annum The Maine Central having leased the Portland & Kennebec R R and thus [illegible] entire Road with its own under one management has decided to obviate the necessity of using the Grand Trunk road from Danville to Portland by building an Extension of its own road from Danville Junction to CUMBERLAND using the Portland and Kennebec R R from thence to Portland
This Extension has already been surveyed [illegible] more than three fourths of the required grading, and all the stone work and masonry completed and the road will be ready for the iron, (already contracted for) in the Spring and prepared for business soon afterward To aid in accomplishing this work the Maine Central Railroad has issued its Bonds to the amount of $800 000, payable in thirty years from October 1st 1870
These Bonds are secured by a First and only Mortgage upon the Extension and the Entire line of the Maine Central with all its property (which would readily sell for three times the amount of its Bonded Debt) is holden for the payment of the interest and Principal of these Bonds
The security is

UNQUESTIONABLE.

A large part of this issue has already been taken [illegible] and other States, and the remainder is offered for sale at a price which makes them one of the most desirable investments in the market
The Bonds bear Interest at the rate of six per cent per annum and both

Principal and Interest payable
IN GOLD.
Free from Government Tax
Coupons Payable in Boston, April 1st and October 1st in each Year

When it is considered that by building this Extension the Road can have a complete line of its own through to Portland at an outlay of some $30 000 (gold) per year for interest instead of paying some $70 000 per year rental to another corporation the commendable economy of the undertaking will be apparent
The local business alone on the Extension will be profitable, besides the advantage to the Road of thus being connected by the same gauge with all the great Railroads of the Country
Bonds issued in denominations of $500 and $1000 each.

The highest market price will be allowed for Government, State, and City Bonds, Bonds of other Railroads and Corporations and all marketable securities, in exchange for above

THE SHERMAN STEEL PROCESS

A Card from J Edwin Sherman

[We have no knowledge of the merits of the controversy which has arisen with reference to the origin and ownership of this process beyond that obtained from the published statements, but having at different times printed announcements and communications bearing on the subject, we give place to the following card from Mr Sherman, as an act of courtesy to that gentleman who is now absent from the country]

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier

I have a great and almost unconquerable dislike to becoming the subject of newspaper controversy, but as many erroneous statements both in regard to myself and my process for purifying iron, and manufacturing steel from the common and lower grades of iron, have recently appeared in the American papers, I feel it to be due to myself and all who take any interest in my discovery in America to make a clear and truthful statement of the facts just as they occurred and now exist
The Portland Daily Advertiser appears to have condensed the most of these errors from the Tribune Evening Post and other papers into one article and while I shall not make a detailed reply to that article I will endeavor to make such a plain statement of the facts in the case as will cover and correct all the errors contained therein The article starts with the assertion that my father and an uncle of mine by the name of Atwood for a long time experimented with chemicals and that when my father died the secret (my discovery) was left to the uncle and myself My father was of a very thoughtful cast of mind and in our daily conversations he sometimes spoke of the practicability of improving the low grades of iron and thought it would some day be done but never to my knowledge attempted such improvement by the application of chemicals or in any other manner With him as with many other speculative minds, it was a belief but he made no attempt to make it a practical reality He taught me much about the nature workings and uses of iron and steel and I am probably indebted to him for having my attention directed to the subject of improving iron and hence, the idea of converting such improved iron into steel but he made no progress towards such discovery and left no secret of the kind to me my uncle Atwood, or any one else I had the highest possible regard and affection for my father and his conduct towards me was always of the most affectionate confiding nature and had he ever made any valuable discovery I know I should have been the first to whom he would have communicated it
As for my uncle Atwood it does not appear very reasonable that the papers would, voluntarily without his knowledge, set up a claim for him For my own protection and for the protection of such as may be led astray by such groundless claims I think it necessary and proper that I should publicly explicitly and emphatically declare once for all that I have no business interests or connection with him, whatever and that he has not the slightest knowledge of or interest in my process for purifying iron and making steel from common iron [illegible] method of producing such results as I produce from the low grades of pig iron, let that method stand upon its own merits and not attempt to yoke my name and my process with any schemes of his whether real or visionary
I have spent something like eleven years of anxious thought and experimental labor to discover work out and perfect my process for purifying iron, and making steel I have toiled and thought, day and night until I have reached a discovery, which I believe the world will yet acknowledge to be among the most important and useful of the discoveries of the present century This discovery, I have spent some of my best years in rendering practically reliable in its effects and results and therefore, useful and valuable The discovery is mine, and mine alone and the merit if it be a merit, of making it practically useful in regular work, is also mine and mine only—and no honest man will make an attempt to filch from or divide with me to that which he has no particle of claim and which belongs entirely to me
After further erroneous statements which are not of sufficient importance to notice here, the assertion is made that I "persevered in my experiments in Bangor and through that means the attention of the British Legation (at Washington) was called to the subject. Rev B F Tefft then took an interest with Mr Sherman and together, about a year ago, they went to England by invitation of the British Government * * * That Mr Sherman has taken out a patent in England of which he controls three fourths and Mr Tefft one fourth"
Now all these statements are pure fictions except the first, which rests on the merest shadow for a foundation I made no experiments at Bangor There are no steel or iron works in Bangor where experiments can be conducted I made but one trial there in a small extemporized furnace, merely to give some friends an ocular demonstration that I had made a valuable discovery and could do what I claimed to do by it
It is not at all probable that any member of the British Legation at Washington ever heard of this, to me, unimportant trial The British Legation came to their knowledge through an entirely different channel The facts, I will state as briefly as a clear understanding of them will permit. I made successful demonstrations at the works of Mathews and Moore in Philadelphia but more extensively at the Steel Works of Anderson and Woods in Pittsburgh It was at these Works, where I first reduced my process to practical working order and made first class steel of common iron Many pieces of steel of different tempers, made there by my process, were tested at the Washington Navy Yard by the late Admiral Dahlgren and other United States officers, at the request of the Secretary of the Treasury The report of these tests was published by the Government. It was these tests, at the Washington Navy Yard, of steel made by my process, that attracted the attention of the British Legation The Naval Attache to that legation, Captain the Hon William J Ward, watched my demonstrations with care and intelligence, and reported the results to the British Minister, Sir Edward Thornton.
A copy of the report of the testing at the Navy Yard with samples of steel made by my process, was sent to England and in the Spring of 1869 I received an invitation from the late Earl Clarendon, conveyed to me through the British Legation at Washington, to go to England and demonstrate the value of my process on English irons. This invitation I declined.
During the summer, the invitation was renewed and again declined. In the following autumn, I was again urged by Captain Ward to accept the invitation, see Sir Edward Thornton, and come to England. After much reflection, and knowing this country to be by far the most important field for the use of my process, and not wishing with suitable encouragement to remain at home, I very reluctantly decided to come to this country. I had very pleasant and satisfactory interviews on the subject of my visit with Sir Edward Thornton, the British Ambassador to the U. S., and began at once to make arrangements to leave During all this time, I did not see Rev Dr Tefft or have any communication with him directly or indirectly nor had I, so far as I can recollect ever spoken with him therefore he of course, was not included in the invitation Being a young man without European experience, and without any knowledge of the business customs of this and other European countries I felt that I needed some one who had such experience and knowledge to come with me About six weeks before my departure I was introduced to Dr Tefft at Bangor and then—supposing he had some of the qualifications I required of the man who was to accompany me I accepted his offer to come with me and entered into a contract with him to give him a certain percentage of the profits of my patent rights in Europe I brought despatches from Sir Edward Thornton to Earl Clarendon, who welcomed me most cordially and after an interview of considerable length told me in parting that he wished me to consider myself protected while I remained in the country At the desire of Dr Tefft I requested permission to let him be present at our interview The request was granted but I soon saw that I had made a mistake in asking the privilege I being the only person whom the English Government wished to recognize in the matter
Earl Clarendon introduced me to the Admiralty and I was soon put in the right direction for commencing work
It is not my purpose in this letter to go into any account of my operations in his country, except to say that after completing my engagements with the Admiralty, I soon learned that I could make no sale of my patent rights there until after the value of my process had been clearly demonstrated in iron and steel works in the several iron districts in England Scotland and Wales, and that this would have to be done at a very heavy cash expenditure Dr Tefft positively declined to provide a single shilling over his personal expenses towards establishing the value of my process among iron and steel men or towards erecting works or in any other manners for bringing the [illegible] to a successful conclusion Although [illegible] holding back on his part and leaving me to provide all the means is best I could for promoting our enterprise, was a sufficient reason of itself for terminating our contract yet when he offered to compromise by taking a portion of my patent rights for and exercising it in the Dominion of Canada or selling it and cancel the contract in reference to Europe I gladly accepted his offer The contract for Europe was given up and a new one made giving him the largest part of the profits of working or selling the right to work my process in the Dominion of Canada and Dr B F Tefft does not now own a single penny in my process for Europe or anywhere else outside of Canada
But the most extraordinary flight of imagination upon which the new firm of Tefft, Atwood & Co have yet entered is the following bold hardy adventure heralded in the Portland Advertiser of Dec 1st 1870
Mr Sherman has now taken out a patent in England which he controls three fourths and Dr Tefft one fourth Dr Tefft came to this country about two months ago when he and Mr Atwood took out a patent for the United States The right is owned by the following parties Dr Tefft one fourth Jas L Atwood one eighth Thomas N Egery a founder of Bangor one fourth Dr H E Leavitt George M Weston and Wm H Smith of Bangor each one eighth A manufactory has been built at Bucksport [illegible] they are now making tool steel and Mr [illegible] city is also manufacturing various articles at his foundry in Bangor among other experiments being a new Steel car wheel One or two firms in Pittsburgh have [illegible] the process and it will shortly be introduced elsewhere Before many months an attempt will be made to organize a company for the manufacture of Steel under the [illegible] in New York city
It is very evident from the tone that the article from which, the foregoing paragraph was taken was inspired if not actually written by the leading spirit of the pretended company therein named Yet every statement it contains so far as it relates to me is utterly and entirely false and without a shadow of truth to rest upon Dr Tefft does not own a fraction of my English or any other of my European or American patents He left England in the latter part of July last and if he and Atwood have taken out a patent for my process in America they have gained a knowledge of my discoveries surreptitiously and are using information thus obtained to my injury with utmost knowledge of the intent as they will learn to their cost when I return to America in the coming spring or early summer to make arrangements for working my process there [illegible] article leads its readers to suppose that the steel works at Bucksport were built and are now carried on by the persons named as the owners of my process in America when the truth is not one of them has the slightest pecuniary interest in my process in America nor does any one of them own a penny worth of stock in the steel works at Bucksport Those works were started by me and a few friends, before I left America and were put into operation in the Spring of 1870 and are now being successfully carried on by the use of my process My process for making steel is used at only one manufactory in Pittsburg and was started there under my direction some months before I came to Europe
My process for purifying iron is nowhere used in America nor has any person in that country the slightest knowledge of it I wish to lay this plain statement of facts before the people not only to protect myself but to warn them against being drawn into the encouragement of doubtful and probably worthless speculations by persons pretending to have a knowledge of my process and authority to use or vend it in the United States when they have neither authority [illegible] or right in the matter

THE CHENEY CASE.—Rev. C E. Cheney, an Episcopal clergyman in Chicago, is again on trial before the ecclesiastical court in that city. It seems he could not conscientiously use the word regenerate in the baptismal services; so he amended the ritual to suit himself. Bishop Whitehouse admonished him, and then, as he persisted, ordered his trial. Cheney claimed the right to challenge the triers as they do the petit jurors by the demand if they had formed an opinion on the [illegible] of one clergyman, to this [illegible] the [illegible] and as to the fact Cheney had justified it as the challenge was not allowed. Then Mr. Cheney appealed to the Superior Court of Chicago for an injunction against the ecclesiastical court setting up as a ground for this interference that his place and office of clergyman constitutes a property which he had the right to have protected by the Courts against ecclesiastical tyranny This pretty much upset his claims to be considered a martyr The court granted the injunction and made it perpetual but the Supreme Court of Illinois recently dissolved it and Mr Cheney backs to the ecclesiastical court. He [illegible] week he presented a paper alleging that the charges against him saying he only wanted a proper opportunity to make his whole [illegible] and that a presentment is drawn [illegible] facts and nothing more he will [illegible] and the court and bishops will have nothing more to do than to pass sentence [illegible] however declined to receive the confession [illegible] for what [illegible] and proceeded with the trial

THE REPEAL OF THE [illegible] OATH
The bill which has just [illegible] Congress to repeal what is [illegible] oath reads as follows
Be it enacted &c That when any person who is not rendered ineligible to office by the provisions of the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution shall be elected or appointed to any office of honor or trust under the government of the United States and shall not be able on account of his participation in the late rebellion to take the oath prescribed in the act of Congress approved the 2d July 1862 said person shall in lieu of said oath before entering upon the duties of said office take and subscribe the oath prescribed in an act of Congress entitled "An act prescribing an oath of office to be taken by persons from whom legal disabilities shall have been removed" approved [illegible]
The following is the act of July [illegible] which the new bill refers
Be it enacted &c That when any person who has participated in the late rebellion and from whom all legal disabilities arising therefrom have been removed by act of Congress by a vote of two thirds of each House has been or shall be elected or appointed to any office or place of trust in or under the government of the United States he shall before entering upon the duties thereof instead of the oath prescribed by the act of July 2 1862 take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation I A B do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies foreign and domestic that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same, that I take this obligation freely without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter So help me God
The Fourteenth amendment [illegible] from office all rebels who held office [illegible] the United States before the war [illegible] consequently a form of oath was adopted [illegible] fact of which was to exclude from [illegible] who had voluntarily aided the rebellion [illegible] whether they had previously [illegible] the United States government [illegible]
It will be observed that the act of July 1868 was intended to open the way [illegible] pardoned by the District [illegible] whose disabilities had been [illegible] Congress but [illegible] from office by the [illegible] The effect of the act just passed [illegible] the obstacles to holding office [illegible] whose disabilities under the [illegible] might have been or may be removed [illegible] were simply unable to take the [illegible] These will [illegible] from the disabilities imposed by the [illegible] amendment are still excluded from [illegible]

OUR SHIPPING INTERESTS.

With a few conspicuous exceptions, the press of New England seems to have failed to urge the necessity of doing something to revive our declining shipping interests, which must soon be relieved of the heavy disabilities now pressing upon them or die out entirely and leave us without even the nucleus for a possible commercial restoration in the future. Some of our ablest journals, however, recognize the vital importance of this matter, and have done and are doing good service in awakening public attention to the condition and prospects of our mercantile marine. Among these, we find the Boston Advertiser a powerful advocate of measures for the relief and encouragement of this great element of national wealth and power. In a recent article it emphasizes the facts to which we have frequently called attention, and presents an instructive comparison between the policy of England and the United States with reference to commerce.

Alluding to the exertions of New York capitalists to defeat the efforts to revive a truly national marine, it confirms our statement that their interest in the foreign lines of steamers and vessels transferred to a foreign flag, renders them as practically hostile to the development of American commerce as the ship-owners of Liverpool or London, and intimates that the flood of obnoxious bills for subsidy, &c., which are presented to Congress, have been originated by them as a means of defeating all measures intended to resuscitate ship-building in this country.

With reference to the policy adopted in England, the Advertiser says:

"While England may boast of having cheap capital, cheap labor, cheap materials, and cheap supplies to use on ship-board, and claims to be governed by a free-trade policy, she yet finds it for her interest to make her shipping interests an exception, and to pay more than four and a half millions of dollars annually for transportation of the mails by her steamers. To this liberal support, begun more than thirty years ago, and steadily augmented until it has reached the sum named, the United States government has added hundreds of thousands of dollars annually, and millions during the above-named period, paid to the owners of foreign steamers most of which are under the British flag. England is doubtless now prepared, if necessary, to reduce her subsidy for North Atlantic service, where alone she is exposed to direct competition with American high-cost steamers and the possible aid from the American government. But on the Peninsular and Oriental Line between England and India, it does not appear that any abatement is proposed to the liberal compensation of about £500,000 per annum. To encourage her national industry, and as an economical resource in case of war, of 97 iron vessels now in the English navy, 80 were built in private yards, and 17 only in government yards."

In view of this wise policy on the part of our great naval and commercial rival, of which we have no right to complain, it pertinently asks:

"Why should the United States adopt and pursue precisely the opposite policy?" * * * * "The mercantile marine and the artisans who construct as well as the seamen who navigate merchant ships are now as they always have been a powerful auxiliary to the navy, and are thus emphatically a means of national safety and defence against a foreign enemy. Why, then, should Congress for a moment entertain the idea of permitting or rather of compelling, by legislation, American citizens to depend on the tinker of the Alabama and his associates in Great Britain to build for them ships to be placed under the American flag, thereby crushing out American mechanics and making the nation, in case of maritime war, dependent in no small degree on their powerful naval rival to supply the ships to contend with her in naval warfare. While England, as has been stated, builds four-fifths of the number of her naval vessels in private yards, the private steam-engine and steamship building establishments in the United States are nearly all idle, and one of the oldest has recently been turned into a stable. It has been estimated, on authority that 35,000 mechanics in New York alone are now unemployed who were formerly engaged in this branch of industry."

The necessity for the adoption of a wiser policy is obvious, and it is equally apparent that the change cannot be made too quickly if we would not surrender the possibility of a future restoration of our commerce. The seamen and skilled mechanics once employed by this great interest are fast becoming diverted to other avocations, and it will be a difficult and costly matter to restore American commerce if the efforts are delayed until ship-building and and seamanship have been numbered among the lost arts of our country.

A dispatch from Washington announces that the President sent to the Senate on Monday the nomination of William P. Wingate, Esq., of this city, as Collector of Customs for this district. Mr. Wingate has previously held the office of Collector, from which he was displaced to make way for an appointee of Andrew Johnson.

Samuel Roberts Graves and Mr. Rathbone, Members of Parliament from Liverpool, at a meeting of the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce on Friday, expressed a hope that Minister Schenck will be enabled to settle the Alabama Claims, in a manner satisfactory to both governments. Both expressed conviction that all native borne Americans cherish affection for England, while only alien residents were hostile.

The Washington Patriot, which so vigorously denounces Mr. Hoar's education bill and all similar measures, was betrayed into a remarkable inadvertence recently, in publishing the following statement:

A bill has been introduced into the Canadian Legislature for the adoption of compulsory education for the rising generation. A good example for the United States to follow, as the returns of 1870 will show at least 3,000,000 people, exclusive of the recent freedmen, who can neither read nor write.

The N. Y. Standard in referring to the Bowles-Field controversy, mentions a point which the former seems to have overlooked. It says:—

"It is very generally known that Mr. Field, previous to accepting the trade of counsel to the Erie Company, was engaged in suits on the other side. It was Mr. Field who denounced Fisk in bitterest terms, and flayed Jay Gould, and brought evidence to bear against the judicial character of Judge Barnard, saying that he intended to quarter and hang that gentleman in full view of the people of New York. After he had fought Fisk and Gould to his utmost, he became counsel for Erie, and aided it in the very operations which he had previously denounced as public frauds. A reference to the well-known cases in which Mr. Field was engaged, will attest the truth of this assertion.

The Boston Advertiser's Washington correspondent says:

A delegation has arrived here with a memorial signed by one hundred of the most prominent merchants and business men of New York city, which protests against the passage by Congress of all subsidy bills under the specious pretence of reviving American commerce. It proceeds to assert that all the right any American citizen can claim of Congress is the right to purchase ships in the cheapest market of the world. This memorial bears the names of business men whose reputation is national and who are in no manner connected with foreign steamship lines.

We should like to see the list.

Representative McCarthy having returned to Washington, the Com. of Ways and Means have decided to take a vote to-day on the bill abolishing the income tax. Secretary Boutwell has addressed a letter to the Committee against the repeal.

There was an unpleasantness on the bench of the supreme court of the District of Columbia on Saturday. Judge Carter delivered an opinion on the Farragut bounty case, after which Judge Wylie expressed dissent from some portions of the opinion, whereupon Judge Carter arose with great excitement, declared that Judge Wylie had agreed with his opinion in the consultation room, and proceeded to speak in disrespectful terms of Judge Wylie, who arose with dignity and said he would retire from a bench where he was subject to insult. Judge Carter was proceeding with his rude language when his associates on the bench interfered and persuaded him to silence.

ENGLAND PROPOSES TO SETTLE THE FISHERIES QUESTION. A New York dispatch says it is understood that Gen. Schenck has been summoned to Washington, at the urgent request of Minister Thornton and Sir John Rose, who have assured Mr. Fish that they are authorized by the British government to say that in the interest of good feeling the Dominion authorities have been instructed peremptorily at once to restore the license system to our fishermen, so as to give them practically the rights and privileges pertaining to the in-shore fisheries of the coasts of British North America. The concession is to be made without conditions, and evidently in the expectation that it may lead to such amicable relations as will the more readily pave the way for a satisfactory re-opening of the Alabama question, upon Gen. Schenck's advent in England.

In order to get a forced acquiescence of Canada, a delay of some three weeks in Gen. Schenck's departure has been asked for by the English agents, as the Canadian official organ at Ottawa fiercely denies the right of England to interfere in the fisheries in opposition to the wishes of the Canadians themselves, and declares that the freedom of the fisheries will never be assented to unless by an equivalent in the shape of a reciprocity treaty. Some doubts are expressed in official circles in Washington as to the ability of Mr. Thornton and Sir John Rose to keep their promise, meantime the Committee on Foreign Relations in both Houses, are taking no action on the fishery question pending the promised settlement.

WAR NOTES.

The Berlin Office announces that no more official military news will be published during the armistice.

A World special says that Favre declares himself master of the situation, and it is probable that if France preserves the Republic, Favre will be Consul, and if the Empire is restored, Premier. The chances of the Bourbons and Orleanists are diminishing and those of the Empire are increasing. The Germans are confident of the restoration of the Empire.

It is officially stated that Germany does not intend to acquire, through a treaty of peace with France, any possessions in India, Asia or trans-Atlantic countries.

Bismarck, in addition to his protest against Gambetta's decree, sent a note to Favre on the subject. The latter replied, declaring that the limitations of the freedom of elections were abolished.

A rumor of the retirement of Von Beust is beginning to circulate in Vienna.

All the German Sovereigns are invited to be present at the conclusion of peace, which is expected at an early day.

A World special says there is great commotion at Tropsdorf the residence of the Count de Chambord where he receives a number of visitors, and by couriers has dispatches twice daily. The Count is in high spirits and may depart for France at any moment.

Marshal McMahon in a published letter, denies the truth of no. Prussian assertions that the French at the battle of Woerth used explosive bullets, or that the French wounded were allowed to cross Belgium.

Among the candidates now nominated to the National Assembly by the Moderate Party, are M. Thiers, Changarnier and Emile Keller.

The Germans have fined a newspaper in Rouen 2000 francs for printing the Gambetta decree prescribing electorial disabilities. The circulation of newspapers between Paris and the Departments, is forbidden during the armistice.

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL.

Gen. W. R. C. Ryan of the Cuban army is back in New York.

Senator Cameron is lame from a fall on the ice about a week since. He was at the Committee room, Monday, on crutches, but has not appeared in the Senate.

Vice-President Colfax addressed a large audience in Lincoln Hall, Washington, on Sunday afternoon, on Temperance.

The Woman Suffrage Advocates have subscribed for ten thousand copies of Butler's and Loughridge's minority report to the House, in favor of Mrs. Woodhull's petition.

Thos. W. Robertson, the dramatist, author of "Society," "Ours," "Caste," and many other comedies, died suddenly in London on Friday, at the age of 42.

Some anxiety is felt in certain quarters because there are no tidings yet of the Tennessee which sailed with the commissioners to San Domingo nearly three weeks since.—Naval officials state, however, that there will be no occasion for anxiety if nothing is heard for ten days yet.

The sub-committee of the committee on appropriations, investigating the charges brought against Commissioner Parker of the Indian bureau by Mr Welsh, have done taking testimony. The evidence fails to sustain the imputations of dishonesty or corruption on the part of the commissioner. The committee will hear the commissioner by counsel, and also give Mr. Welsh the same opportunity of presenting his story if he desires it.

A Washington dispatch says the delay in the departure of Minister Schenck for England, which may be protracted for several weeks, is in consequence of the wish of our Government to await the result of negotiations with the Canadian authorities for the settlement of the Fishery question, and in which Minister Thornton and Sir John Rose are now engaged. Mr. Schenck's instructions are not prepared, though gradually assuming a definite form.

Thomas Shannon in the employ of the Hamilton Print Works at Lowell, Mass., was instantly killed at 11 A. M. on Monday, being caught by a belt, and carried over a shaft, breaking in the back of his head and fearfully mangling his limbs. He was 47 years old, and leaves a wife and three children.

A test case involving only a few thousand dollars, is to be argued before the U. S. Supreme Court to-day, to decide the validity of the Cotton tax.

OF

SEPTEMBER 30, 1869.

Published by direction of the Committee of Arrangements.

This interesting and valuable compilation should be owned by every Bangor family. Besides the excellent Historical address of Judge Godfrey, enriched with copious notes, it contains a full account of the procession &c., all the poems written for the occasion and accepted by the Committee, as well as others well worth preserving, the speeches at the dinner corrected for this Book, and the letters received by the committees of invitation and publication. The volume is full of entertaining matter, biographic sketches, anecdotes and traditions of our early settlers, &c., &c., never before published, and only to be found in its pages. Only a thousand copies were printed, and many of these have been sold. As the types have been distributed, no more copies can be had after this edition is exhausted. The price is one dollar per volume.

PIANO FORTES

Put in complete order, tone and tune, without the necessity of sending them to a factory. The subscriber from Boston continues to offer his services to the citizens of Bangor and vicinity in every department of Piano Forte work. Being a practical Piano Forte worker of nearly twenty years experience, and more recently from the manufactory of Messrs. CHICKERING & SONS, of Boston, where he has been employed for more than six years in the Regulating Department, gives him the utmost assurance that he can offer himself fully to the community and the Musical Public. Those who may be contemplating sending their Pianos to Boston to be put in order, can have the opportunity to forego that inconvenience and expense, by leaving their orders with Messrs. LOWELL & SPENCER, Music Dealers, No. 14 Main Street, can have the same work accomplished without moving them from the house, the renewing of which will render the action susceptible to the most delicate touch, and increase the power, volume, and purity of tone to their original capacity. Together with a style of tuning which will produce the most desirable results. Warranted to give satisfaction or no pay. The patronage of the public is respectfully solicited.
STEPHEN GROVER.

PARIS AFTER THE SURRENDER.

Special to New York Herald—

Versailles, Feb 3d. Our correspondent who has been inside of Paris since the investment came out to-day and gives the following account of the city after the surrender.—Since the conclusion of the armistice great tranquility prevails and a general expression of satisfaction and relief is shown by every one. The suppression of the mighty clubs led to many out-door meetings, especially in the Passage Jouffroy and Passage des Princes. On more than one occasion women addressed the crowds inciting assaults on the Hotel de Ville and angrily inveighing against the men. Their harangues, however, were generally received with apathy and indifference.

An attempt was made on Sunday morning at the halls Centrales, to institute universal pillage The National Guard was called out, and its members availed themselves of the opportunity to fill their own pockets.

Since Monday night the decree of suppressing clubs has been annulled, and open air meetings have consequently closed. Several proclamations signed by obscure individuals, have appeared on the walls inciting resistance to the government, and refusing to accept the armistice, although generally read they are treated with indifference.

The sailors retired from the forts with great reluctance Commandant Montrouge committed suicide

Crowds of peasantry attend daily on the bridge Nuilly, in hopes of being able to pass the Prussian outposts but without success

The French government refuses to give any but personal passes which are obtained with great difficulty

The Parisians are under the impression that the Prussian troops will not enter Paris They are ignorant of the full terms of the capitulation

It is believed that the guns in the forts will not be taken away by the enemy

The force of provisions has not yet been [illegible] of 100,000 horses originally in Paris 65 000 have been killed for food Three thousand horses requisitioned by the government have been given back to the omnibus company Cabs have entirely disappeared

The women of Belleville and Villette, express themselves in terms of great exasperation against the Germans It would be highly dangerous for isolated Germans in small parties to be seen in the capital

The delivery of arms has commenced at Sedan, and is proceeding rapidly in consequence of the article of the convention providing for a delivery of arms before revictualing Paris The exchange of the wounded and prisoners is proceeding to-day at the gates of Versailles

During the siege there were only five suicides in Paris of whom two were soldiers, and one woman

Arrangements are being made at Berlin for the Emperor's arrival He will be in Berlin by the 8th of March at the latest He will leave Versailles on the 4th, and pass through Minden and Magdeburg on his way to the capitol

The whole army of investment will march through the Arc de Triomphe avenue de L'Empeatrice, Rue De Bevolia, and Rue St. Antoine simply for the purpose of passing through Paris, the houses on either side of the route will be cleared of their inhabitants and occupied by German troops

—If any person wishes to see a splendid lot of turkeys let him call at the Market of Wm Low, on Exchange street They were brought in we understand, by Messrs Pettingill, Spooner & Co, who are lately from the Plains

—We are informed that Supt Hayford of the Belfast & Moosehead Lake Railroad assigns as the reason why the morning passenger train does not connect at Burnham with the Maine Central train to Bangor, that "the engineer refuses to start any earlier from Belfast" But Mr Supt he runs by the printed time table

—We have received the first number of "Good Seed," an illustrated weekly newspaper published in the interest of the Young Men's Christian Association, by F G Rich & Co Portland Typographically, the paper leaves nothing to be desired and if only one half the list of writers announced contribute the paper must be a decided success The current number is of much interest

ACCIDENT Maggie Harkness, an Irish girl, about ten years of age, daughter of Mrs Maggie Harkness, was run over by a milk man, on Saturday, and considerably injured Her knee was seriously cut and she was bruised on other parts of her limbs and body—Mrs Harkness thinks that the man will find it to his pecuniary advantage to make her a call before an officer is sent after him

THE WEEKLY COURIER, with Supplement, for the present week is a number of unusual interest, containing, as it does, all the news of the week, foreign and domestic, editorials upon the current topics of the day, and Legislative summaries, an interesting story, the best marine report published in the State, the opinion of the full bench of the S J Court in the case of Litchfield, the Rockland Bank robber full report of the fire Sunday night, &c, &c. The COURIER is for sale at this office

DON PEDRO, Emperor of Brazil, is reported to be contemplating a visit to the United States before long This rumor probably grew out of the fact that the American Emperor is reported to be on his way to Europe to visit his numerous Royal cousins and brother crowned heads in that part of the world, and may return home by the way of the United States Should he do so, the whole Yankee people will vie with each other to give him a welcome, as our latch string has been always "out" for European Princes and why not for the only Emperor we can boast of on the continent? If he is really coming to make us a visit it stands us in hand to brush up our knowledge of Brazilian matters Col Shannon's lecture on "the land of the Southern Cross"—or in one word, Brazil—announced for this evening is timely, and ought to draw a crowded house He comes fully endorsed as a lecturer of ability and we can safely promise those who hear him a rich treat

RUNAWAY At the request of numerous friends and patrons we insert the following interesting paragraph, which might have appeared in Saturday's paper if it had been written A meek and gentle nag belonging to the creditors of the publisher of the Whig, while jogging down Broad street at a gentle trot imagined that he was wanted at the European Depot Always ready to respond to any reasonable calls, he started off in a hurry, spilling out 150 lbs of boy belonging to the aforesaid publisher, and turning the sleigh sort of inside out Desirous of showing his speed to the largest number of persons, he kindly took a turn down around the Maine Central Depot passed up through the Square over the Central Bridge, turning towards the European Depot, evidently imagining that he was on the home stretch With commendable perseverance he continued down Exchange street showing himself to the best advantage, until he found a train of cars directly across his path, when he concluded to halt, evidently remembering the sad fate of the bull that butted the locomotive

P S We forgot to mention that the paint on that sleigh was slightly scratched

N B If any gentleman wishes to purchase a race horse, we know of a man who has one to sell

THE ABEL LOOM This wonderful piece of mechanism has been removed from Exchange street to Hersey's boot and shoe store on West Market Square, where it may be seen in operation at any time during the day This loom, which promises to entirely revolutionize the method of manufacturing woolen cloth, is constructed on a principle something similar to the circular knitting-machine, save that a weft thread is introduced which solidifies the cloth and prevents its stretching—making a firm, thick web which equals the production of the best looms. The loom may be worked either by hand or power, and produces cloth with great rapidity—a yard per minute being easily woven All sizing, beaming, &c is done away with, and the yarn is taken direct from the bobbins, thus effecting a great saving in the expense of manufacture. A large number of pieces of cloths of different varieties, made on the Abel loom, are also on exhibition at Hersey's store

—The funeral of the late Burritt H Beale, will be held at the residence of Mrs B Plummer, No 40 Jefferson street, at 1 o'clock today. At the request of the military organizations to which he was attached, additional services will follow at the Pine street M E Church, commencing at 2 o'clock Mr Beale was a young man of much promise, honorable in his business transactions, and always dignified and gentlemanly in his deportment. His loss will be deeply felt by a large circle of friends and acquaintances

FIRE IN ORONO. The dwelling house of Mr. Wm. C. Taylor at Orono, caught fire on Monday morning, and notwithstanding the exertions of the firemen and citizens, the entire upper story and roof of the main house was burned off. Considerable damage was also done to the ell part and stable adjoining. Furniture mostly saved. Insured for $500 in the Union of this city, which will nearly cover the loss.

—The Dexter Gazette says: Several papers are giving publication to an item stating that Mr. Charles M. Burden, of Wellington, recently hauled 70 bushels of potatoes to this place, and that on arriving here they were frozen [illegible] Mr. Burden tells us that there were not more than a bushel of potatoes injured [illegible]

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT. Wm. G. Andrews, son of Hon Leonard Andrews, and clerk at the Biddeford Depot, was instantly killed at that station Monday afternoon, by falling under the engine of the 3 o'clock train from Portland.

—A telegram from Wiscasset states that the mercury was 6° below zero at 9 o'clock Saturday night, and 10° below Sunday morning, with a very violent North-West wind on both days.

—The farm-house of David Bailey, Jr, in Wiscasset, with its contents, was destroyed by fire Saturday noon. No insurance.

—Wiscasset has had no mail communications west since Friday last, the Kennebec being frozen up at Bath, and the ferry boats unable to cross.

—On Friday a man by the name of Wood sill, employed in the works of the Knickerbocker Ice Co., had a pick driven entirely through his foot, says the Gardiner Reporter

—Forrest Raines, employed in Gray's mill, Gardiner sawed one of his fingers off and badly mangled two more, on Saturday last

—On Thursday George Sprague had his left hand very badly jammed while putting in a calendar roll at Richards & Co's paper mill in Gardiner

—Mr Henry B Lincoln's house on State street Augusta, was slightly damaged by fire on Saturday caused by the overheating of the furnace

THE WOUNDED DOVE.

BY S J DAYS

Poor little bird oh so sorely twas wounded,
Hard was the heart, and callous to love,
That struck from the glorious sun brightened ether,
The silvery form of the beautiful dove.

There in the dust it lay fluttering, panting
Striving in vain with its one unhurt wing
To rise far away from its terrible anguish,
And join with its mates in their low murmuring

All useless and down on earth's gentle bosom
It lay its tired head and closed its soft eye
The struggle was over, the last effort ended
[illegible] through the azure the sweet bird might [illegible]

Thus in life's ways have we seen, sorely smitten

The Bonds are issued at $20 000 per mile against the portion only of the line fully completed and equipped

The greater part of the road is already in operation and the present earnings are largely in excess of the operating expenses and interest on the Bonds The balance of the work necessary to establish through connections thereby shortening the distance between St Paul and Chicago 45 miles, and 90 miles to St Louis is rapidly progressing in time for the movement of the coming grain crops, which it is estimated will double the present income of the road

The established character of this road running as it does through the heart of the most thickly settled and richest portion of the great State of Iowa together with its present advanced condition and large earnings warrant us in unhesitatingly recommending these Bonds to investors as in every respect an undoubted security A small quantity of the issue only remains unsold and when the enterprise is completed which will be this Fall, an immediate advance over subscription price may be looked for

The Bonds have 50 years to run, are convertible at the option of the holder into the stock of the Company at par and the payment of the principal is provided for by a sinking fund The convertibility privilege attached to these Bonds cannot fail to cause them at an early day to command a market price considerably above par U S Five-twenties at present prices return only 4½ per cent currency interest while these Bonds pay 9½ per cent and we regard them to be as safe and fully equal as a security to any Railroad Bond issued and until they are placed upon the New York Stock Exchange, the rules of which require the road to be completed, we obligate ourselves to re-buy at any time any of these Bonds sold by us after this date at the same price as realized by us on their sale.
